"Total Ensemble's performance was extraordinary in it's human beauty; the relationship, respect and care amongst the performers touched my heart."

Colin Mace, Founder of Booja-Booja

Welcome to the 8th year of THE HOSTRY FESTIVAL, held at Norwich Cathedral

Stash Kirkbride and festival patron Hayley Mills

2018 sees The Hostry Festival in its 8th year and what a line-up of truly original work is on offer. At its core is our Festival Central Production, World Premiere, of Boy In The Lighthouse by Total Ensemble Theatre Company. Devised over six fascinating months by artistic director Rebecca Chapman and her cast of over 25 performers from across Norfolk, this inclusive Movement Theatre® piece, is being performed for six nights. It will be memorable, moving, and something truly not to be missed.

The Norfolk Arts Awards, in association with the Eastern Daily Press, is highlighted over 4 pages, with 14 awards and 36 nominations. This celebratory annual gala event really does serve to bring together so many of the county's creatives. It grows in reputation yearly, with many of the nominees and winners being extremely proud to be recognised for their commitment to the arts in Norfolk. www.norfolkartsawards.org

James Colman's Paint Out Norwich delivers outstanding work each year. Visual artists from all over Norfolk and beyond flock to be a part of this extraordinary five day event. Get a flavour of Paint Out in the pages that follow and be sure to see it all happening throughout the streets of Norwich and at the Hostry Building during this year's Autumn Festival Of Norfolk. www.paintoutnorwich.org

Other Highlights include:

- The Human Voice. The newly re-worked festival commission from 2015 returns for a final performance. A stunning double bill of drama and opera, starring Tracey Catchpole and Lisa Cassidy is presented as a special gala event.
- Inspiring Females in the Arts returns, in association with BBC Radio Norfolk & Norwich High School For Girls.
- James Boyd and Harriet Mackenzie unite in a very special classical concert of international standing.
- Danceitation – Mind, Body, Rave makes a welcome return to the festival. A chance to go wild to the best world music on the planet.
- Mick Collins' new book The Visionary Spirit is discussed in fascinating detail on stage.
- Gavin Hewitt and Matt Frei, two of the UK's best respected journalists are In Conversation on stage at this year's festival.
- Sally Phillips, of Bridget Jones's Diary and Smack The Pony fame, talks in depth on the BBC documentary about her son's Down's Syndrome.
- There's more live music from the newly formed Ella McCready Jazz Trio. And to conclude, the Bishop of Norwich is profiled in a special 1 hour interview.

On a personal note, being invited to be the Artistic Director of Holt Festival for their 10th anniversary this year, has confirmed to me the importance of creating programmes of bespoke work. Both festivals excel at providing a platform for the very best in so many areas of the arts. The warm welcome, commitment, and standards achieved in both these leading arts projects give me a real sense of pride in being associated with them both for 2018.

We simply cannot wait to share The Hostry Festival at Norwich Cathedral with you, and I look forward to seeing you at our festival launch night on Monday 3rd September 2018.

Thank you and welcome to our new festival patrons, many of whom are nominees or winners of Norfolk Arts Awards; we greatly appreciate your interest and support.

And it's great news that the University of East Anglia has become the festival's Principal Sponsor this year. Our thanks go to all the trusts, charities, and philanthropic individuals who have given so generously, allowing us to deliver the most original and inclusive year of programming to date. There are more partnerships than ever, as we continue to work with some of the county's leading educational establishments, businesses and projects, all of whom are credited in the pages of this brochure.

Best wishes,

Peter Barrow

The Very Revd Jane Hedges

We are delighted to be hosting the Hostry Festival at the Cathedral.

There are many opportunities throughout the year to celebrate the arts in the Cathedral and its precincts, but it is a particular joy each autumn to have such a variety of both the visual and performing arts concentrated in one festival period. I'm so pleased too that this year Total Ensemble Theatre Company's production of the Boy In The Lighthouse is at the centre of the festival, as I know that their work brings so much joy to all who are participating and to their audiences.

We look forward to a thoroughly entertaining time celebrating the creative spirit very much alive at the heart of Norfolk and Norwich.

The Very Revd Jane Hedges
Dean of Norwich Cathedral

Volunteering

The festival offers more ways than ever of meeting each other face to face, thanks to our launch night and gala events, plus Q&As and signings. You can as always play your part both on and off stage, in front of or behind the scenes, by contacting our Head of Volunteers for 2018, Tracey Catchpole info@hostryfestival.org to register your interest.

Tracey Catchpole

The Hostry Festival offers voluntary roles in so many areas. Students in the latter part of their educational studies from 18 plus are welcome to apply, as well as the more mature student and those with life experience of any age.

You can take part in performance, inclusive theatre, direction, writing, production, media, project development, fund raising, devising, front of house, back stage, visual arts, dance, acting, singing, original music composition, public relations, social media, reviews, filming, graphic design, set design, costume and hospitality. As long as you're truly interested and committed to picking up invaluable experience we'd love to hear from you.

These roles can cover as little as one event, to two weeks, two months, or all year 'round.

Email info@hostryfestival.org to find out more.

Paint Out Norwich 2018

Paint Out Norwich is five, hasn't time flown? In the same way, the minutes pass quickly when you're nearing the end of your first three-hour session at Paint Out Norwich or watching the tide lap at your feet on a Paint Out Wells pre-dawn assault on the harbour or beach. It's never easy, however seasoned the artist, but for the public watching one of the 40 jury-selected artists create an artwork in just a few hours, it is a time-stopping and often jaw-dropping experience.

For both aspiring and professional artists, Paint Out offers an opportunity to rise to the often daunting challenge of putting their skill set to the ultimate test and scrutiny and also, of course, the chance to win prizes in one of our many categories.

Competition Selector

We are delighted in 2018 that Paint Out will have David Curtis (ROI, RSMA) as competition selector for artists entering our Norwich event. David comes with huge experience and has been involved as a judge twice before with us. He is an internationally renowned plein air oil and watercolour painter, as well as being the author of six art books including The Landscape in Oils, Light and Mood in Watercolour, and Painting on Location.

Competition Judges

Our judges for Paint Out Norwich have been chosen very carefully to bring a variety of experience, relevance, and erudition to the judging panel. These include our guest artist, demonstrator and judge, Tony Robinson - an experienced plein air painter in his own right and the organiser and creative energy behind the long-established and respected Art in the Open, (Wexford, Eire).

With over 40-years as gallerist and art dealer we welcome John Allen of Mandell's Gallery, Norwich. His lifelong experience in dealing in Norwich School painters, as well as Seagos, Arnesby Brown et al, not only brings commercial insights but also no one is better at understanding the subtleties of the Norfolk light and stretch of its expansive landscape on canvas.

Finally, bringing academic prestige with a PhD in the History of Art from the Courtauld Institute, we have Dr Giorgia Bottinelli. Currently, she is curator of historic art at Norwich Castle Museum and Art Gallery where she oversaw the complete redevelopment of the Colman Galleries in 2012. Her most recent curation there is John Sell Cotman in Norwich and London (until June 2019).

Charity & Education

This year, for the first time, Paint Out is very pleased to be working with The Big C via a series of workshops in the run-up to the main event. These will grant those affected by cancer the opportunity to experience the therapeutic benefit of artistic creativity.

We will also be working with several local schools in the county to try and establish an educational arm to the event that would allow students to be introduced to core non-digital art skills in an era of dwindling opportunities on the school curriculum.

Public Paint Outs & Talks

2018 will also see us collaborating with The Sainsbury Centre for Visual Arts with an artists and public 'paint out' and mini lectures with plans for larger scale plein air collaborations at exhibition level at SCVA for 2019.

For artists and collectors of plein air work, this year's Paint Out Norwich has the potential to be our most comprehensive and exciting yet. The Private View and Awards Ceremony, on 17 October, is the first opportunity to see and buy the artworks, but also to hear the views of the judges on whom they have chosen as 2018's winners. We look forward to seeing you there and at the exhibition at the Cathedral Hostry that follows until 28 October.

In this 50 minute on stage profile CHRIS JACOB will talk with MICK COLLINS about his new book, The Visionary Spirit: Awakening to the Imaginal Realm in the Transformocene Age. They will explore the complexities and creativities of our untapped human potential, and how we can be inspired to tackle a burgeoning global crisis.

The event will delve into themes such as spirituality, dreams, myths, the collective unconscious and sustainability.

“A transformational tour de force”
David Lorimer.

SALLY PHILLIPS

In Conversation with Festival Director Stash Kirkbride

Saturday 27th October 2018

Time: 2pm

Running time: 60 mins including Q&A

The Hostry Festival is proud to be presenting the Award winning writer and actress Sally Phillips, well known for her roles in Smack the Pony, Miranda and the Bridget Jones trilogy. Since her big break in I'm Alan Partridge, Sally has gone on to star in HBO's VEEP, Dave's Taskmaster and to curate R4's Museum of Curiosity.

Sally's remarkable TV Documentary for the BBC in 2017 profiled her son's condition of Down's syndrome. The reaction to her investigation of this subject matter within the documentary was deeply moving and has since resonated across the globe. With inclusion being at the heart of the festival this year, we are more than proud to welcome Sally Phillips to Norfolk. This promises to be a frank and in depth on stage profile of one of the country's leading actresses and ambassadors for the rights of people with disabilities and those whose voice is yet to be fully heard in society.

Gavin Hewitt is a prolific broadcaster and writer, currently the BBC's News Editor. He was in East Berlin the night the Berlin Wall fell, he was in Moscow for the fall of the Soviet Union and in New York for the attacks of 9/11. He reported from New Orleans on Hurricane Katrina. In 2003 he was embedded with US forces for the invasion of Iraq.

Three years later he reported on the war in Lebanon and then on the war in Georgia. As the BBC's Europe Editor he covered the crisis in the Eurozone and the tensions between the EU and the UK. His blog was voted one of the most influential in Brussels. During that period he wrote a book, The Lost Continent on the crisis in Europe. He is one of the leading commentators on European politics, the European economy and Brexit. He is known for his effortless interweaving of the stories of ordinary people with the high drama of European politics.
